We consider digitally delivered goods to be information or content that you can download from our website, access via web browser, or receive by email. Users who purchase our unlock code will receive an email verifying a successful purchase. Users can login to their purchased course using the unlock code entered to the watchface settings. "Delivery" means the access to our garmin watchface through garmin smart watch. At present we have only one mode of delivery – internet browser. Currently there are no products that require downloading.
